

“Empowering Parents, Proven Results”

Does your child think differently or learn differently than other students in his/her class?

If you don't agree with the services and/or program your child's school district is offering your child with special education needs, we would love to talk to you. Our Special Education attorney assists parents of children with special needs, due process, discipline and expulsion across the state of South Carolina.

Dedicated Defenders for Parents and their Children.

By consulting with a special education attorney, you can get a clearer picture as to whether or not the school district is acting within the law as it pertains to your child's education needs. In addition, many school districts have legal counsel of their own to guide them in making decisions at IEP meetings. Don't risk going to one of these key meetings without sufficient support of your own.

Institute of Special Education Advocacy at William and Mary Law School.

Our attorney, Andrew Potter, has successfully earned the Certificate in Special Education Advocacy from the PELE Institute in Special Education Advocacy at the William and Mary Law School. Which means concentrated, unique training related to special education and representation of parents with children who are facing obstacles from their school district.

Let us be your best defense.

If you have a child with special needs and you don't think your child is getting the education he or she deserves and has a legal right to, call or email us immediately.

Call Potter Law at 864-214-6233 or contact us online to schedule your initial consultation.

www.potterlawsc.com